Mortar Board Inaugurates
Move to Correct Politics

A national movement by members of Mortar Board, national senior women's honorary, to investigate and take positive steps toward the improvement of campus politics is being undertaken in the 60 colleges and universities throughout the country having Mortar Board chapters. Inaugurated at the national convention of the society in June, the movement came in answer to the requests of delegates from many active chapters for national support in beginning such a project on their individual campuses.

Mrs. Katherine Wells Coleman, national president of Mortar Board, was invited to present the position of the organization regarding campus politics to the recent meeting of the National Pan-Hellenic congress. Mrs. Coleman there called attention to the nation-wide report of distressing political conditions, and asked the cooperation of the officers of the national sororities represented in the Congress.

Members of the local chapter of Mortar Board have included in their service program a study of

U. K. Rifle Teams

Total Scores of 1796, 1790
Exceed Those of Last Year

The University ROTC and Varsity rifle teams, under the direction of Major Austin Triplett, won a match last week between West Virginia University, the Rhode Island State College, New Mexico Military Institute, Indiana University, and Washington University. The total score for the ROTC team was 1796 and for the varsity team 1790.

The scores made were exceptionally good, according to Major Triplett, who said that he thought that with a few weeks more practice the teams should be able to surpass all previous records. The total score of the varsity team exceeded last year's total high score by one point, while the ROTC's score exceeded their last year's total by 43 points.

Those shooting for the varsity and their ranking scores were: F. McGoldrick, 371; C. D. Johnston, 359; A. M. Thompson, 356; G. H. Benson, 356; S. S. Botts, 354; and F. James, 353. The last score, sixth highest, is used only in case of a tie. Others who fired were Guy Pendleton, 352, and Wilgus Broffitt, 344.

The ROTC scores were as follows: F. McGoldrick, 371; A. M. Thompson, 356; G. H. Benson, 356; S. S. Botts, 354; F. James, 353; and Garth House, 353. Others in the ROTC match were Guy Pendleton, 352; Wilgus Broffitt, 344; and J. Farcht, 336.

The University team's opponents include various universities, colleges, and military schools over the nation. The teams have yet to fire seven matches, including University of Michigan, University of Tennessee and John Hopkins University.

TVA DECISION AWAITED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20—(INS)—As the Supreme Court convened today to hand down decisions, a ruling on constitutionality of the TVA was awaited. While there was no assurance that the court would pass on the validity of the TVA act, under which the administration set out to remake a big section of the nation, a decision was considered probable.

U.K. Chemistry Professors
Work Hard For Science

"Do you mean to say that the instructors work at night to prepare for classes on the following days?"

"Sure! Why not?" asked Dr. R. N. Maxon, head of the Chemistry department.

And while Dr. Maxon's answer to the question put a stop to further discussion still it did not completely explain why lights burn so late in Kastle hall.

Those lights started all the questioning in the first place. For no matter which one of the twenty-four hours of the day, nor which of the seven days of the week one happens to be passing by, things never seem to be completely still in the Chemistry building.

In the daytime a humdrum of noises informs the passerby of the activities within and, at night, bright lights form windows to let him know that someone is digging into the secrets of science. Perhaps the product known as "midnight oil" was first developed in some chemistry laboratory or, if not then, it has been adopted in a big way since by Kastle hall chemists.

Rumored That Walker May
Start In Lewis' Place
At Pivot Post

By MAX LANCASTER
Coach Adolph Rupp's Kentucky Wildcats will face one of their toughest assignments of the season when they take the floor of Alumni gymnasium tonight at 8 o'clock to battle the Michigan State Spartans, a team that handled the 'Cats one of their two defeats of last year.

The Kentucky mentor is still dissatisfied with the showing of his team made in the last week and is considering some drastic shake-ups in his line-up. Garland Lewis, the senior center, seems to have hit a slump and may find his position being taken care of tonight by Rice Walker, sophomore, and former member of the Lexington Henry Clay high school team. Walker was the lad that pulled the game out of the fire for the 'Cats Saturday night against Tulane. He has shown remarkable improvement in the last week and, considering his work in the Tulane encounter, may get the call over Lewis tonight.

Joe Hagan, the rugged sophomore forward, who was held to one goal in the N. Y. U. and Xavier games, showed some improvement Friday and Saturday nights and seems to have regained his eye for the baskets.

The Michigan team will invade Lexington with a somewhat of haphazard season behind them, but unless the Wildcats show a great deal of improvement over the form they displayed against Tulane Saturday night, the Spartans will hand the Big Blue team their second loss of this season.

The game tonight should be interesting, mainly because the North-erners will be giving their all in an effort to hand the 'Cats two defeats in a row, and the Wildcats will be out to get revenge for the defeat handed them last year by the Spartans.

WALL DECORATIONS

Despite numerous protests, both officially and editorially, petty thievery has continued and appears to be definitely on the increase at the University. The most recent pilfering of these "souvenir hunters" has been the removal of two bronze building name plates from their places of prominence.

These plates were placed on the various buildings only last year at considerable expense to the University. They were the result of a long standing movement to suitably mark the various campus edifices.

One of the markers was stolen from the entrance to Maxwell Place, residence of the president. As the sage would say, "Things have come to a pretty pass" when the marker is stolen from the very gates of the president's residence.

These and the theft of numerous other small articles prompts The Kernel to again remonstrate against such practices. These plates could doubtless be found on the walls of some student's room where they are "prized decorative trophies."

Such destruction and pilfering of property must stop. It is up to the students of high integrity to discourage their morally weak brothers in such practices.

IS PAINTED—"

The tragedy of a man who died at the wrong time is seen in the death of Rudyard Kipling. Had he died forty years ago, as the Victorian era was grasping on its death bed, he would have probably been acclaimed the greatest of the late Victorian poets. Last week he died, a great writer, but a writer out of tune, as many claim, with the times. So bitter was he against the exploitation of modern ideas, and so careful was he against being exposed to them that his seclusion from the world made him virtually unknown to the younger generations.

Although he lived in America for the short span of four years, he later became eloquent in his denouncement of the influx of American ideals into England and the continent. It is thought by many, however, that he really loved this country, but that he was forced to pretend the opposite because of relative beliefs.

The fact remains, nonetheless, that Kipling was a great poet and as such deserves a place in the hall of the dead—great. It is safe to say, we believe, that much of his poetry will live long after the works of many of those he denounced so thoroughly.

CONFIDENCE BUILDS

Confidence builds and improves a community, lack of it destroys communities. Distrust is a destructive element that eats into the very vitals of community life, whereas trust in one another is the only foundation on which towns and cities can build for the future.

Confidence is but one element of cooperation. Of course, no co-operation would be possible without the utmost confidence in one another. The people of this community could not be expected to patronize local merchants if they did not trust them, if they did not believe they were getting value received.

"Trust men and they will be true to you; treat them greatly and they will show themselves great."

Thus wrote Emerson, the great essayist, many years ago, and the life hasn't changed much since then. No community can build for a greater and larger future if distrust is the ruling element in the community. We must have faith in one another—a faith, a confidence that is substantial enough to stand a hard jolt now and then and still be strong.

If you find evidence of something that shakes your confidence, don't conclude that this is the predominating spirit of the community. Just look about you and you will be able to find ample reason for your confidence to be strengthened and restored.—Tribune, Lemmon, S. D.

SKILLED LABOR WANTED

Men seeking jobs and jobs seeking men, and the two can't get together. The men aren't prepared to fit the jobs.

It is a pathetic condition of everything being out of joint. There are plenty of "educated" and "trained" men, but they are not properly educated and trained for the specific jobs that need men. Those who have education cannot use it. There are 10,000,000 employables between the ages of 18 and 29 who never held a job. Many of these have been through the schools; many have studied in high schools and colleges. They tell the employment manager that they will do anything but they can't name the particular thing they know they can do well.

It is a serious situation and the remedy cannot be applied immediately. Mistakes of long standing will have to be corrected. A proposal has been made that manufacturers and other industrialists revive the apprentice system. That may help.

Certainly the whole system of education needs careful inspection and readjustment. Conditions change rapidly. Employment managers complain that even those trained in vocational schools are unsuitable because they are taught "tricks of the trade" that now are obsolete.

Evidently there are problems on which the industrialists and the educators should work together.—Evening News, Southridge, Mass.

CRIME CIRCUS—BETWEEN BRUNO
AND DEEP BLUE MYSTERY

The Hauptmann case jumps into the headlines again with Governor Hoffman's investigation, carried on through the chief of detectives of Burlington County, New Jersey, creating grave doubts about the justice of the settlement. Much is made of a letter allegedly mailed from Buffalo, N. Y., which is supposed to have predicted where the baby would be found. Also it is now brought out that while it has been established that a piece of wood of the famous ladder came from Hauptmann's attic, no investigation has been carried on to find out where the rest of the wood was obtained.

The kidnaping story has never been explained to the satisfaction of the American people. We have had plenty of circumstantial evidence. The passing of the money, and the ladder evidence point to the fact that Hauptmann was involved. He might have been one of a group of plotters, or merely the one who was caught on planted evidence and passage of "hot" money.

Barrels of ink were used during and after the Hauptmann trial in the newspapers of the country criticizing the manner in which the trial was conducted. Many a person feels that it was just one grand circus in which everyone—including the press—was attempting to get the spotlight. The blunders of the counsel for the defense became notorious during the trial and afterward.

Regardless of the degree to which Hauptmann was involved in the crime, the American people want a more complete explanation. They feel that until the case has been more satisfactorily explained the death sentence should not be imposed. Perhaps in the future some links may be found in the chain of mystery, and then perhaps through Hauptmann the rest of the case can be fully explained. Under the circumstances, Governor Hoffman will not receive great criticism if he steps in to prevent the death penalty until more inquiry has been made.—The Minnesota Daily, University of Minnesota.

Hoi
Polloi

By BOB HESS

Ah! The misery of it all! These blasted exams are drawing near, and now we all have to start to cram merely because we didn't hit the books or burn the trite mid-night oil as we should have during the past few months. Me, oh my! What a life!

The Roses

It has been over a month since we last threw a bouquet of roses to some charming bit of femininity of the University campus. Sooooo, Alpagam neophyte Jane Potter, you had better appreciate this little gift, for these roses have been nursed along to maturity for weeks, and are all for you, Jane, you not only have the looks that go to make for bigger and better UK (you 'Kutie') coeds, but the persistence to tick to Suky selling when you can have so many dates for basketball games. More power to you, Jane.

Wedlock

Rumor had it that Johnny Eversole and Whitty Huguete were secretly married some time ago, but again rumor is defeated. Nevertheless, authenticity has it that Saturday, Johnny and Whitty packed Nate Elliot, who was a witness, into a car and drove to New Albany where Whitty's name was changed to Eversole. Congratulations to you two, and more power to you. Maybe we should have tossed the roses to Whitty so she could have cashed them in for some groceries.

Expose

The following is part of a note which was intercepted by one of Hoi Polloi's stooges:
"My dearest one:
All last night I rolled and tossed all because of you. You upset me so that I'll never be the same—in fact you've changed by entire life.... etc. If only yesterday could have gone on forever I would be perfectly contented....etc."

She Flohrs Me

Of course we all know that Joe Hicks, the Don Wawn of Delta Chi has his pin on Carol Flohr, but you don't know what he said to Jimmy Smee about the girl. Here it is, "Aw gee, ain't she cute. An' she's got a new Plymouth." Now watch Joe trounce Jim for this disclosure to the press.

A Grilling Kiss

It was in front of the Rose Street Grill last Wednesday at 6:15 that Frank Willis was wrapped up in romance. A long smacker for a beautiful coed. Maybe he was practicing up for the next Guigold play, and then again, maybe not. Have you ever heard a steak sizzle in a frying pan? Well, that is what the kiss sounded like.

Poetry

Maid of 'Tucky, ere we part,
Have a hospitable heart....
Since our own delights must end,
Introduce me to your friend.

Thank You

For all of the favorable comments concerning the little continued story, started last week, which was written using as many students names as possible. The second installment will follow soon. And those of you with a feeble sense of humor, such as mine, thank you for your appreciation of the uncalled for story about the ants in the botanist's pants.

Much Better Than Mine

The best college joke of the month comes from Northwestern. Here it is:

Professor—Boys, are you passing notes back there?
Rear of room—These aren't notes, they're dollar bills; we're shooting craps.
Professor—Oh, pardon me.

Romance

From where I'm standing it looks like sure-fire romance between Basketball Ralph Carlisle and Lois Coblin. After the games Friday and Saturday night Ralph and Lois were courtin' 'em up at the Tavern. And Saturday they doubled with Basketball Lewis, who was with an unrecognized charmer. Looks as if the basketball team is going social.

Statistics

Just to show Dr. E. Z. Palmer (not so e. z.) that his course in Statistical Method was of some use to those who took it, we offer the following figures.

If a college student burns two cigarettes a day, he is saving one and one half cents a day. In one year this amounts to a saving of $5.40. If the bumming continues for twenty years, the bummer will realize sufficient savings for four monthly installments on a new Ford ($108). Maybe in twenty years such illustrious cigarette bummers as Younger Alexander and Sonny Murray will be burning up the asphalt in new cars.

Drippings from the Quill

Have you ever noticed the look of perfect contentment, with eyes closed, on the pretty pan of Pat O'Rear when she is dancing with suave Bud Hunt?... Your writer's only New Year's resolution is to omit the name of Kay Kennedy in this column.... There I've broken the resolution already.... We have nothing on Harry Bullock, but merely because he said that he thought that this column was much better because his name was not included herein, we must write the name, Harry Bullock.... Many are mourning the loss of Shirley "How Now, Spook" Smith, who will not return to school next semester.... For a good laugh ask Ruth Cramer the circumstances surrounding the leaving behind of her books when she returned to school from the Christmas holidays.... Sexlexy Potter has had many requests to sing the "Round" song since we disclosed the fact that Lex is quite a crooner. Andy Anderson might give Lex a job singing in his band. Wouldn't Sexlexy look cute with a megaphone in his hand. Well, slap my wrist.... By the way, on page thirty of the current issue of Time will be found facts concerning the crazy "Music Goes Round" song. Very interesting.... Dr. Patrick of the Extension department, calls Miss Murphy, his secretary, "Ladybug." Cute, don't you think?... Just like the postman who takes a walk on his day off, Johnny Ennis, the famous Tavern soda jerk, just sits him self contentedly down in the Tavern on his day off (I mean on a chair).... Friday night John Bell was heard to say, "Oh! Tonight I'd like a little W. and M." W. turned out to be whiskey and M. turned out to be Martha Alexander.... Wonder when the members of the League for Industrial Democracy and those charging communism will settle their troubles. Probably never.... Seems as if a romance involving Sam Powell and Janet Chanslor is budding.... The 1936 Kentuckian will be the 1936 Kentuckian has ever had. Seventeen pages of snapshots. By the by, those organizations who have not turned in snapshots had better do so immediately, or be left out.... The current issue of the Saturday Evening Post has a story entitled "Going Through Love" which will make good reading material for any collegian.... Wonder if Happy got the gum he was chewing at the game Friday night from "Beechnut" Stahr.... Happy doesn't have to play handball for exercise, at least not when he can massage gum the way he did Friday.... From Colgate we get a joke which is quite appropriate near the end of the semester. The painted coed went up to the young Prof. and said "Profy dear, what are my marks?" He put his arm around her and whispered little nothings in her ear. Ha! Ha!.... The game tonight promises to be a little better than those last week end. See you all there.

McGUGIN DIES SUDDENLY

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 20—(INS)—Death had ended the colorful gridiron career today of Dan E. McGugin, athletic director at Vanderbilt University, who succumbed to a heart attack while visiting the home of his law partner here late yesterday. He was 56 years old.

SHOP SIGHTS
By BETTY EARLE

We've heard of women going bargain hunting, but it's not known whether the men go in for that sort of thing or not. However, it's a fine time to start—while Graves-Cox is having its January sale. They have some sport sweaters, beginning at $2.95, some p.j.'s from $1.65 and on, Freeman and Nunn-Bush shoes at reduced prices, and grand values in ties—one dollar regulars for 65 cents and dollar and a half ones for 95 cents.

And then after you've gotten those bargains to sort of tide you over a little wintry weather that's bound to come, how about a few of the latest spring styles? Angelucci and Ringo has some Arrow shirts of a pattern called Welsh plaid with a button-down collar. These, worn with knit ties, are quite the tops in sports wear for men. And they do say that men's spring hats will rather "brim" over—a quarter of an inch wider. They are in dark colors, made by Stetson, Knox, and Finchley.

Speaking of hats, it seems to be an established fact that we women can't do without them.... Shipp's has a keen new line of spring hats and more on the way. You'll want to tear right down, cause they're going fast (and that's not sales talk!). The snitziest one of all was square-crowned sailor, which, by the way, is going to be the very peak of fashion. It was made in a new shade of felt called tango rose and trimmed with a grosgrain ribbon. All crowns are getting to be very shallow this season.... flat crowned Bretons similar to those of last year are still in. Some of the new colors are English brick, Thames green, Parliament red, British tan (like the coral tan of last year), Wales blue, a little brighter than navy, (looks like we'll soon be singing "God Save the King").

Also take a look at Shipp's tailored suits.... don't forget that the earlier the selection, the better the quality. These suits are styled by men's tailors.... made in English flannel (very soft and not the scratchy kind), men's wear worsted and grayish material called sharkskin. They'll be fine for immediate wear under your winter coat and then later with no coat at all. Pleats are still good and so are belted backs for jackets. The cleverest was the unit with three French seams in the back.... one down the middle and one beginning at either shoulder. The coat lapels showed another innovation.... stiff and stitched in gray.

Here's luck for all those 3 standings we're going to make next week!

STUDENT

Activities at Oklahoma:

The Oklahoma Union, squarely in the middle of the University of Oklahoma campus, has truly become the hub around which the student body and faculty gravitates.

That the Oklahoma Union is filling its purpose as the center of campus activities was proved recently when student counters sat at the Union entrances for a day and tabulated the number of persons entering the building.

The count showed that 6,563 persons entered the building between 7 a. m. and 8 p. m., an average of some 500 persons an hour. The Oklahoma student body numbers 5,600 students.

The Union popularity has grown steadily, since the building was constructed six years ago for a number of reasons. One of the most popular features this year has been a series of free Saturday afternoon dances. Attendance at these affairs has ranged from 300 to 500 students.

A faculty dinner this fall attracted more than 500 persons to the Union building. Dr. William Bennet Bizzell, president of the University, was honored on his twenty-fifth anniversary as university president and his tenth anniversary as president of the University of Oklahoma.

WNAD, the University's radio station, which has its modernly equipped studios in the Union, doubled its power this year in becoming a 1,000 watt station. Afternoon, as well as evening programs, have been added to the WNAD schedule.

A popular feature has been added to the University Book Exchange in the Union. A "Book Nook," stocked with scholarly volumes, plays, biographies, classics and popular current fiction has been started. Scores of students may be found in the "Book Nook" during every hour of the day browsing through the volumes which are kept on open shelves.

The recreation department recently drew a Saturday afternoon crowd of almost 1,000 students and faculty members when Charles C. Peterson, for 15 years recognized as the world's greatest trick shot billiard artist, gave a demonstration of his shots.

Adopted from the College Union Bulletin.

Dear Editor:

In a recent issue of the Kernel a student expressing his views on a poem entitled "War" expresses the wish that his initials not appear at the end of his letter for fear that he will be shot in the back.

Even if he were shot in the back it would be a fairer method of MURDER than war. War at its best is just a game of checkers. The interest controlling the moves are never hurt. If a general, colonel, or what not directs his men so as to win a battle then he feels proud and adds another brass medal to his creaked chest.

A certain professor at the University of Kentucky has a series of war pictures which show war at its worst. One picture shows a dead German soldier. The soldier's head is covered with green flies. Not a pleasant thing to think about. Neither is WAR.

It would be a good thing if the above set of pictures would be displayed so that the student body could see them. But no. The military department would not allow that. They would prevent it just like they prevented a certain pacifist from speaking at the University.

Those students of the University who can see WAR in its real meaning should unite and form an ANTI-WAR organization. But such a movement would undoubtedly be suppressed. As soon as the higher ups saw the white flag they would immediately brand it RED.

War always reminds me of the joke about the private who, when ordered to go over the top, became so scared that he began running in the opposite direction. He had been running about five minutes when he passed an elderly looking soldier.

The elderly soldier demanded that the private stop and salute him.

"Who are you?" asked the private.

"I'm a colonel."

"My goodness," said the private, "Am I this far back?"

SEEN FROM THE PRESS BOX

By JOE QUINN
Kernel Sports Editor

After two lackadaisical performances against Tulane in the first of their conference games, Coach Adolph Rupp's Wildcats will face Michigan State here tonight. The Spartans from Michigan were the only team other than New York University to hand the 'Cats a setback last season.

To date, however, Michigan State's record is not quite as imposing as it might be. However, the Spartans are known as slow starters who always improve as the season wears on. Last year they were defeated three times before the middle of January but lost only one game in seventeen, thereafter.

H. KRAFT

The State team is in much the same position that Kentucky is in, boasting of four veterans and a sophomore in its first lineup. Kraft, their sophomore forward, is hailed as one of the best shots that has ever performed at the East Lansing school. He crowded a letterman out of his forward position to give an indication of his value to the team.

The Wildcats will have to show a definite offensive improvement if they are to win tonight. Although they spotted Tulane a lead and beat them to the finish handily, they probably cannot do the same thing against the Spartans, who scored their most recent win over Marquette in an overtime period.

J. Rice Walker, who made good in his first real opportunity, against Tulane, probably will get another chance tonight to show his stuff. Walker was impressive both offensively and on the defense last Saturday night, which warrants another trial for him in the regular lineup.

"Smoky Joe" Hagan showed a partial return to form against Tulane and is about due to turn in another good performance against the Spartans. He missed several tries on both nights but played a nice floor game and will probably start at one of the forward posts tonight.

Herb Tade, University of Tennessee football center, who was seriously injured in the Kentucky game, finally has recovered sufficiently to allow him to be moved to the University hospital in Knoxville.

Dr. Brashear, who has been Tade's attending physician, believes that the removal to Knoxville will be of great benefit to Tade, who will be in the midst of his friends and schoolmates, in an atmosphere which should hasten his complete recovery.

The doctor said that he believed that Herbie should be completely himself a year after his injury and that he should suffer no permanent disability. Tade has been unable to speak distinctly since his accident but Dr. Brashear was confident that this condition would disappear with a little time.

Herbie's mother publicly thanked all who had in any way aided him during his stay in the Good Samaritan hospital and carried away with her a grateful memory toward Lexington.

The scheduled benefit basketball game to be played by the University of Kentucky and University of Tennessee freshmen teams will be held in Alumni gym on February 6. Proceeds of the game will, of course, be given to Tade and his family.

Appointment of Ted Twomey to the football coaching staff of the University of Texas was officially confirmed last Saturday night by Texas authorities. He will take up his new duties shortly when the Longhorns begin their spring training drills.

Twomey came to the University along with Coach Wynne in 1934 and has been first assistant to Wynne during the past two years, acting as head line coach. In his two-year term, he has done a great deal to strengthen the Wildcat forward wall, developing a number of fine linemen.

Notre Dame men regard Twomey as one of the greatest linemen developed under Knute Rockne. Before coming to Kentucky, Twomey served as line assistant to Harry Mehre another Notre Dame product, head coach at Georgia. He will now work under Jack Chevigny, still another Notre Dame star, who is head coach at the University of Texas.

There has been no definite steps taken by the athletic department to secure anyone to take Coach Twomey's place. When questioned, Athletic Director Wynne said that he had not had enough time to consider a successor as yet.

U K FROSH BEAT HIGH SCHOOL NETTERS

The University of Kentucky freshmen easily overwhelmed Flemingsburg High school 41-14, Friday, January 17, at Flemingsburg. The Kittens took the lead with the blowing of the first whistle and never relinquished it throughout the game.

The U. K. frosh were too strong for the Flemingsburg team and ran rough shod over their efforts to stop their flow of baskets. The Kittens led 17-7 at the end of the half and continued their scoring spree in the second half despite the numerous substitutions. Thompson, freshman center, was outstanding for the Kittens with 9 points; however, Adams was close behind him with 8 points.

WILDCATS DOWN TULANE IN TWO WEEK-END TILTS

Carlisle Leads Scorers In Both Engagements As Cats Beat First Conference foe

KENTUCKY PLAYS SLUGGISH GAME

Entire Squad Sees Action In Games Won 49-24; 39-21

With Ralph Carlisle pacing the scorers on both occasions, the Kentucky Wildcats emerged victorious in their first two Southeastern encounters beating Tulane 49-24 on Friday night and 39-21 on Saturday night.

The Tulane team, rated as one of the weaker teams in the conference, caused the 'Cats plenty of trouble during their stay here and it was only last-half superiority which gave the Kentuckians their victories. The Wildcats played a sloppy brand of ball both nights, with little teamwork in evidence, and it was only individual brilliance which turned the tide in their favor.

Meeting with little more stubborn opposition than they had anticipated in the first game, the 'Cats put on a strong offensive which carried them through with plenty to spare and consequently took things too easily in the next night's fray, giving a haphazard exhibition.

In the first game, Kentucky got away to a slow start but once under way was never in danger. After McClosky and Neyland had made foul tries, Donohue connected with a short shot which Carrere matched with a crisp. After Lewis made a foul throw, Red Hagan sank a long heave to give the 'Cats a lead which they increased throughout.

Coach Rupp used his entire squad in an effort to give the team some experience, but the second and third stringers continued to pile up points with even greater efficiency than the regular five. Ralph Carlisle, with ten points and Red Hagan and Garland Lewis with nine apiece, were high men for the evening. Locket, lanky forward of the visitors, while scoring only a single field goal, registered with six straight foul tries to lead his team.

On Saturday night the Greenies piled up an early lead and protected it through the entire first half to command at the intermission, 17-13. Carrere, Locket and Neyland combined their efforts to score from in close and at long range to offset the one-man scoring attempt of Carlisle, whose four field goals and two free throws kept the Wildcats in the ball game during the opening period.

Coming back into the second half, Kentucky put on an entirely different show and with Hagan, Carlisle and J. Rice Walker supplying the offensive punch, jumped into a five-point lead in the first five minutes. From this point on, although the 'Cats slowed down somewhat, the Kentuckians had command of the situation. Although Coach Rupp failed to substitute as freely as on the previous night, yet the game ended with an entirely different team representing Kentucky than that which had started the battle.

Carlisle's fifteen markers again gave him the point leadership, while Walker, with nine, was second high man. During his stay in the game, Walker gave a fine performance, scoring at opportune times and showing up well on the defense. Carrere, captain of the visitors, was their leading scorer with eight points, while Locket chalked up six before he was banished on personals.
